PROFILE

Hi there! I'm HURYA, a pre-med student with a splash of tech-savvy flair and a passion for making waves in the world of AI and medicine!

My academic journey began with matriculation at Bahria College, where I set the foundation for my future with a keen focus on learning and growth. I then advanced to Khatoon-e-Pakistan for my second year, diving deep into pre-medical studies and nurturing my curiosity about the human body and healthcare.

Currently, I'm expanding my horizons beyond traditional medicine. I'm thrilled to be a participant in the Governor of Pakistan's Generative AI Initiative, where I'm exploring the cutting-edge intersection of AI and healthcare. On top of that, I'm honing my skills in Typescript and Python, fueling my aspiration to merge technology with medicine in innovative ways.

When I'm not immersed in medical theories or coding away, you'll find me:

Dancing to my favorite tunes and enjoying life's rhythms Getting lost in a captivating book Channeling my creativity into DIY projects Volunteering and giving back to my community Let's connect if you're passionate about the future of AI in healthcare, love a good dance break, or simply want to chat about the exciting journey of learning and innovation!
